Hi Peter.

What are your thoughts on the best way to introduce the Charter for Change to the bloggers. I was thinking that since there is a piece about them not supporting any one political party we could see if they will now add to that and say "hey look what we found. What a good idea. Both parties should adopt this as a platform."

Also since they are 'working on' their website should we offer them a hand?

Bill,

I will pass your thanks along to all. You and Jenny are more than welcome!

Have 2 addresses on the brochure thecharterforchange@yahoo.com & thecharterforchange@gmail.com - strangely the website according to Denis Lowe is a page under the website www.electdenis.com, which he says they are still working on and may not be up and running! Will keep you posted.

Til the next visit then!
best regards,
Mamie

Hi Mamie. Thanks so much to all of you, Elvis, Barbara, Barbara for making my stay with Jenny so pleasant. That was the first time I actually took a day off and we toured the island so I got to spend some quality daughter time and also see the sights.

And Barbara's cooking surpassed itself.

In case they have not been recovered I left the key for the Camry under the mat and I left the keys to my room on the seat of the SUV in the garage.

Lastly can you get me the web site for the charter of change people? I see the BFP bloggers are talking about politics and thought we should supply them with this site location as it may be that it will be of use to
